'Balanced Package'

U.S., EEC Reach Hits AA in N. Vietnam Accord on Trade Attack on North

By James Goldsborough

PRIUSSELS, Feb. 4 (URT).—The United States and the European Reconomic Community today reached a trade agreement that U.S. negotiator William D. Eberle said should assure U.S. congressional passage of a "clean gold bill."

The agreement, though its precise terms were kept secret pending Mr. Eberle's report to Congress next week and some form of ECC council approval, had an immediate affect on the money market, with the dollar strengthening against both gold and sterling.

Mr. Eberle called it an agree-ment both in "substance and principle." EEC commissioner Ralf Dahrendorf referred to it as a balanced package." Nevertheless, the package left many matters

Although the various U.S. trade talks have been bilateral, they raiso have been inter-related, with the Japanese, for example, waiting for the EEC-Washington acbefore agreeing to its own with Washington.

The United States has been holding out for a successful con-clusion to its trade talks before asking for congressional ratification of the gold bill, which woold fix the new price of gold at $38-an ounce. Mr. Eberle said on several occasions that if Congress was not satisfied with the trade package it might pass a "dirty gold hill," one including protec-ionist trade restrictions.

Mr. Eberle appeared confident that this trade package would satisfy Congress. The European community and the United States can now take the next steps in expanding world trade," he said following the session.

But despite his positivism, he got less than he wanted on several U.S. exports, such as grain, citus truits and tobacco. Several long-term problems rewould be learned of this agreekeep Congress or the EEC council from accepting the package, they could raise serious problems in the future.

To begin with, the community apparently got no specific trade concessions from Mr. Eberle, as it had wanted. In the agreement the United States reportedly "recognizes the principle of reciprocity," but gives no specific quid pro quo for the Common Market's trade concessions:

-France, for example, has wanted U.S. concessions on dairy products and cognac, and Italy for its almond exports.

The agreement is reportedly airly specific on several shortterm concessions that Washington was seeking; although not going as far as Washington would have (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4)

SAIGON, Peb. 4 (UPI).—A U.S. F-4 Phantom jet fighter-bomber crossed into North Vietnam today to attack an anti-aircraft-gun battery that had opened fire on an unarmed RF-4 photoreconnaissance plane that the Phantom was escorting.

It was the eighth such "protective reaction" strike north of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) so far this month and the 264th since former President Lyndon B. Johnson halted regular bombing of North Vietnam on Nov. 1.

There was no damage to the U.S. aircraft. Because of smoke over the area, the U.S. command said it could not tell whether the anti-aircraft bettery was camaged. The attack was carried out 46 miles north of the DMZ separating North and South Vietnam and seven miles east of the

Lall in Ground War

After days of intensified ground fighting which eppeared to be leading up to a much-predicted Communist offensive on the eve of President Nixon's Feb. 21 visit to Peking, there was a relative lull in fighting in the 24 hours ending at 6 a.m. today. In six major clashes, at least 35 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong were killed at a cost of at least 10 South Vietnamese soldiers and civilans killed and 34 wounded, the U.S. and South Vietnamese commands said. American B-52 bombers carried but raids in the Central Highlands, where much of the fighting has broken out in recent weeks, but no significant fighting on the ground was reported there.

Air Base for Saigon The U.S. command announced today that it is turning the $60-million U.S. Air Porce base at Phan Rang, 165 miles northeast of Saigon, over to the South Vietnamese next month. That will leave three major U.S. air bases in Vietnam-Tan Son Nhut; Da Nang and Cam Ranh Bay. In Laos, heavy fighting was reported under way today near the Communist-occupied town of Muong Kasy, 90 miles north of Vientiane, well informed military sources said.

The government forces were facing North Vietnamese-led Pathet Lao troops in fighting on high ground overlooking Highway 13, ebout seven miles (12 kms) south of Muong Kasy. The sources added that government units were able to move their 105 mm Howitzer artillery pleces southward before they abandoned the town to the North Vietnamese on Wednesday. Lactian government forces meanwhile were reported to have recaptured yesterday the Mekong River town of Paklai, 98 miles west of Vientiane, without resis-tance. The town had been overrun Tuesday by an estimated three platoons of Pathet Lao Communists, possibly joined by Thai terrorists, military sources

VIENNA, Peb. 4 (NYT).-The while certain intergovernmental United States and the Soviet Union ended today the sixth round of their talks on limiting strategic nuclear arms, with some progress reported toward drafting a treaty covering anti-ballistic or defensive missiles. The two sides decided to reconvene on March 28 in Helsinki, where they opened their nego-tiations in 1969. The latest Vienna phase, which began Nov. 15, failed to end a deadlock over submarine-based missiles. According to e reliable source, the long recess is intended to give President Nixon time to decide whether to accept virtual parity in this field, in which the Russians are trying to catch up with the American lead, or to eliminate such missiles from the proposed limitation on offensive nuclear weapons. A conference source said that some articles of the proposed treaty on anti-ballistic missiles had been drafted here recently. The United States, in an attempt to settle a dispute over the number of missiles and their purposes, reportedly suggested exact parity, with the celling somewhere between 100 and 200 and with each side free to deploy missiles where it wished.

The joint communique issued today, reporting progress "on a number of issues," said the goal now is a "treaty on the limitation of anti-ballistic missile systems and an interim agreement on certain measures with respect to the limitation of strategic offensive arms."

This was said to be the first time the word "treaty" had been used in describing current goals. Since treaties require ratifica-tion by the United States Senate,

British Troops Ring Town on Eve of March

BELFAST, Feb. 4 (UPI).-British troops sealed off the barder town of Newry today to prevent any attempt by the Irish Regula-lican Army to smuggle arms and men into the town for Sunday's illegal Catholic protest march.

A British Army spokesman said the stop-and-search operation at army roadblocks ringing Newry was simed at preventing arrother "Bloody Sunday" like the one in Londonderry last Sunday. Soldiers killed 13 civilians when a gun battle erupted during an illegal civil rights demonstration. With 48 hours to go before the Newry march—whic's organizers have refused to call off despite British government pleas—news-men counted up to 17 rondblocks manned by soldiers and armored cars around the predominantly Catholic town of 12,000. Many were on roads epproach-ing from the Irish Republic border three miles away. Soldiers searched all cars, trucks and buses passing through, frisking every passeoger and pedestrian.

"We are looking for arms and IRA men and anyone else who might make trouble," the army spokesman said.

Security spokesmen said they could neither confirm nor deny reports that by tonight 4,000 soldiers would be guarding the Newry area-more than one-quarter of the 15,000 British troops in Northern Ireland.

Senate Votes $3.075-Billion

Foreign Aid WASHINGTON, Feb. 4 (Reuters).—The Senate today passed e long-delayed $3.075-hillion foreign aid appropriations bill amid controversy over whether its re-jection last October of an earlier bill had hampered Vietnam peace efforts. The Senate voted 45 to 23 to pass the bill, which provides money for bilateral economic and military assistance plus contributions to international banks. Earlier, it added funds for Pakistan refugees and cut out assistance to police departments in Latin America, Africa, the Phi-

Mr. Wilson said that if a Labor government returned to power after Britain had jeined the European community, it would im-mediately ask for a renegotiatien of terms.
"If renegotiations were re-

Mr. Wilson said, "as I have already told the House of Commons, we chould propose that it might be good to have a little friendly talk and suggest that we shake hands, thank them for their kindly pegotistions, and withdraw,"

There also was no agreement on leng-term international commodity agreements, as the com-munity desired. In the etatement, the community reportedly says that such agreements would contribute to world trade exper-sion, but the United States does

Both sides agreed, however, that this accord should keep the ball rolling that began with the Desuper dollar devaluation and the removal of the U.S. surcharge When Congress passes the gold bill it is hoped that the new parities will contribute to a better trade climate and that the shortterm agreements can turn into the long-run "new Kennedy Round" that is being planned for next year. Moscow Moves To Suppress Dissident Paper

MOSCOW, Feb. 4 (AP).—The Soviet Communist party has taken a top-level decision to crush the Russian dissident movement's underground journal, the Chronicle of Current Events, re-liable dissident sources said yes-

But despite the reported Krem lin move to crack down on the most complete record of political and religious repression in this country, the latest issue appeared today and was made available to Western correspondents. The sources said they had no direct knowledge of the party decision to stamp out the Chron-icle, but said they were reliably informed that it had been taken. Such a decision could explain the recent secret-police campaign of intensive surveillance, apartticularly in the capital and the Ukraine.

The informants said the party's Central Committee reportedly adopted the decision in a resolu-

The Chronicle is typed on onion-skin paper and circulated by members of the various groups. It has appeared about once every two mooths since April 30, 1968.

Senators Ask Nixon for an Ulster Stand

House Committee To Hold Hearings

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4 (IHT). Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R., Mass., and Sen. James L. Buckley, Conservative, N.Y., urged the Nixon administration today to: take the lead in seeking a solution to the strife in Northern Ireland.

In Senate speeches, they suggested a variety of possible approaches, including an investiga-: tion by a European civil rights: council, replacement of British: troops by a United Nations force, and an easing of present policies such as internment.

Yesterday, Fred Harris, D., Okla., also proposed a UN peacekeeping force. "Now is the time to act on such suggestions," ho said in a statement. "We should not allow the situation in Northorn Ireland to deteriorate further." He also favored unity of Ulster and Ireland.

Proposed by McGovern

Among the presidential candidates, Sen. George S. McGovern, D., S.D., has urged that the U.S. government join an international appeal for an end to the violence in Ulster. "For a beginning," he said in a ctatement, "the practice of internment without trial in-stigated by the British must end." Rep. Benjamin Rosenthal, D., N.Y., announced his House Foreign Affairs subcommittee will hold hearings later this month on what U.S. policy should be toward Northern Ireland. Meanwhile, Irish Foreign Min-ister Patrick Hillery reportedly has not quite fulfilled his bopes for active U.S. support for his government's position on Northern Ireland.

Irish Embassy sources said the minister was happy with the result of his meeting with Secretary of State William Rogers, yesterday, "although there was nothing definite at the present time" in the way of help. Bridges: Law Couldn't End Dock Strike

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4 (UPI). The president of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union told Congress today that his striking West Coast dockers will return to work only when they vote themselves to do st-end not by presidential or congressional order.

· ILWU head Harry Bridges appeared under subpoens with Ed-ward Flynn, president of the acific Maritime Association, before a House Labor subcommittee that is considering emergency legislation proposed by President Nixon to halt the almost four-month strike. -in prepared remarks, Mr. Bridges said:

"Our recommendation to the striking ranks will be that the morkers came out on a strike with a vote on an industrywide serret referendum ballot, and they will return the same way. No Defiance

"In saying this I mean no disrespect or defiance of President Nixon or his high office. I simply mean to say that in this instance he is trying by methods that won't work to force an end to our

Rep. Frank Thompson ir., N.J., chairman of the subcommittee, es. Mr. Fivnr ind Albert Brundage, general counsel of the Teamers' Union, to testify on Mr. Nixon's bill

It calls for compulsory arbitration to send the dock workers back to work, with a settlement of the dispute dictated.

Mr. Bridges said his union and the PMA are still in dispute over the retroactive date of a wage increase paid holidays and "the mion demand that employees... shall be provided with prescription drugs."

. "We feel that if left alone, within a reasonably short time the parties will arrive at an amicable agreement," Mr. Bridges said. The strike has lasted 118 days. The 15,000 West Coast longshore men walked off the job July 1 for 100 days, went back to work under a Taft-Hartley injunction and then struck 24 Pacific ports

President Nixon will-adopt after studying various position papers. Sen. Kennedy's strategy is to force Mr. Nixon to take 2 stand on a comprehensive test-ban treaty this election year. Sen. Kennedy already has Sen. George McGovern, D., S.D., a declared presidential candidate, as a cosponsor of his Senste resolution to open "prompt negotiations" with the Soviet Union "to end all underground nuclear weapons

His resolution also calls for "an immediate moratorium on all U.S. testing to remain in effect so long as the Soviet Union also abstains from testing

Senstors and Democratic presidential challengers Edmund Mus-kie of Maine and Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota also have advocated moving toward a com-prehensive test ham. Mr. Nixon on March 18, 1969, said "the United States supports the conclusion of a comprehen-sive test ban adequately verified," adding that "efforts must be made toward greater understand-ing of the verification issue."

Seven arms-control specialists. in a telegram sent to Sen. Ken-nedy on Jan. 24, endorsed his resolution and said that "national means of certification" of under-ground nuclear tests "sre now adequate even for a permanent comprehensive test-ban treaty." Thus, Mr. Nixon's reservations about being able to verify Soviet tests are being disputed by one body of scientific opinion.

Beiter Seismology

The Federation of American Scientists argued in a policy paper that "recent improvements in seismology and other means of detection" would enable the United States to "detect Soviet violations of a test-ban treaty long before the Soviets could carry out enough tests to score a breakthrough that would threaten the stability of the nuclear bal-

The federation asserted that "much of the opposition" to a comprehensive test ban springs not from fear of Soviet cheating but "from the desire to continue American nuclear testing in order to develop new weapons, to retest existing weapons and to keep our laboratories vigorous."

John S. Foster jr., director of the Pentagon's research and en-gineering office, told the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee in October that ex-perience had established the need for on-site fuspection to "clarify the nature of seismic events' large enough to detect but too small to identify positively; "establish the nuclear or nonnuclear nature of low-yield exconfidence in any cases where earthquakes are misidentifled as explosions, and deter violations by increasing the chance of being

Sen. Kennedy intends to take the floor of the Senate the week after next to argue the case for a moratorium on testing. By then, he hopes to have some Republicans as well as Democrats as sponsors of his resolu-

His next step will be to ask Sen. J. William Fulbright, D., Ark, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, to hold hearings on the comprehensive test-ban resolution:

At those hearings, if not before, the Nixon administration will be forced to take a stand on the proposal for a wider test

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4 (AP).—A U.S. soldier who found an anomination box containing $150,000 in a cave in Vietnam and handed it over to his platoon leader is trying to get the money back from the U.S. government.

Donald W. Morrison of Monroeville, Ga., said in a claims

"I was almost out," Mr. Morrison testified. "I just happened to flash a light up about 10 feet and saw a can sticking out."

He said that he got the can down and opened it. "All I could see were $50 bills in three stacks." He said he handed the money to the platoon leader who passed it on to Col. Dean Schoor, their unit's operations officer. The colonel passed it to the higher U.S.

The plateon leader, Daniel Dorsey, who gave testimony for the government against Mr. Morrison's claim, said that When the money was found his men "went into shock "I had a hard job trying to command them," he told

"They were definitely excited about splitting the money for their own personal use," he said. "All I could do was to say soldiers do not use U.S. currency in Vietnam."

Irving Aide Unsure He'll Testify at Probe

By Miguel Acoca

PALMA DE MALLORCA, Spain, Feb. 4 (WP).-Writer Richard Suskind, 46, was served today with a subpoens to appear before a federal grand jury in New York Monday morning to answer questions about the research role he played in helping novelist Chifford Irving compile the "auto-hiography" of multimillionstre Howard Hughes.

Mr. Suskind, an expatriate New Yorker who lives on this Mediterranean island, accepted the subpoena from a party led by the U.S. vice-consul in Barcelona, Russel Winge, and U.S. postal inspector A. L. Vasquez, who flew in from New York with the subpoena this morning.

They were accompanied by Spanish plainclothes police. Mr. Suskind, who has claimed he saw Mr. Hughes during one of the hundreds of interviews Mr. Irving says he had with the recluse industrialist, also accepted a U.S. Treasury check for $639. to pay for his trip to New York. first, he refused to take the check, saying, "I cannot take it until I speak to my lawyer.", Mr. Vasquez said be did not know what questions the grand jury wants to ask Mr. Suskind. The subpoens was served as Mr. Suskind stood on the tereneva, a subturb of Palma. He was not surprised. He had been expecting it for several days,

Not Sure Hell Go I am not sure I am going to go to New York," he said after the departure of the officials, who reportedly had a difficult time finding his home. When the of-ficials arrived he and his wife were packing to move to the nearby island of Ibiza, where Mr. Irving has his residence.

Mr. Suskind said be did not know the name of his lawyer. He expects to engage a U.S. lawyer who be said will probably arrive in Palma tomorrow.

"He may be someone from a Washington firm," he said. Mr. Suskind disclosed that be had been on Ibiza most of the week, staying in a hotel near the town of Sente Enlair. He said he had returned to Palma last

While in Ibize he saw Leander Gerald Diaz Albertini, a mystery figure in the bizarre book affair, and English painter David Walsh, another Ibiza resident who drew the portrait of Mr. Hughes for Mr. Irving's publishers—McGraw-Hill and Life magazine.

The transcript of the interviews Mr. Irving says he had with Mr. Hughes were kept in the safe of Mr. Albertini's pala-tial home on Ibiza. Mr. Waish painted the portrait from photographs of the millionaire supplied by Mr. Irving and from the writer's description of Mr. Bughes. Both Mr. Albertini and Mr. Walsh said they have read part but not all of the transcript. Another Subpoens

Mr. Albertini has been asked by postal inspectors, who telephoned him from New York, to appear before the grand jury. It is expected that he will also be served with a subpoens. He is an American of Cuban-American and Irish parents and was educated in England. Mr. Suskind said earlier that he believed Mr. Irving "made a mis-

Gen. Forsythe, the chief of staff's special assistant for the Modern Volunteer Army, said the quality of the enlistees is high.

12 Pet. Are Blacks A year ago Pentagon planners believed that the percentage of blacks in a volunteer Army would be between 16 and 18. However, the present figure among enlistees is 12 percent.

The Army has found that some of the reforms introduced in 1970 and 1971 were not applicable in the basic-training period.

The beer machines have been taken out of most barracks that house enlistees undergoing basic training. The physical side of that training has been made more rigorous and the period itself will be lengthened. The abolition of KP, Saturday morning inspections and "make work" programs has increased the efficiency of the Army, especially at the 16 posts where the Volunteer Army (VOLAR) program is being implemented.

As Gen. Forsythe put it, "you end EP and you make sure that sergeant has the eight men he wants, when he wants them for a specific training job." Unemployment has helped en-listment, the general conceded.

U.S. Backs Bid By British Unit To Visit POWs WASHINGTON, Peb. 4 (WP).

The State Department said yesterday that it will support any effort by Amnesty International a British organization, to conduct an impartial inspection of prisoner-of-war camps in both North and South Vietnam. U.S. policy has been to regard the International Committee of the Red Cross as the only or-ganization impartial enough to make such an inspection, Frank A. Sieverts, a department officer with special responsibility for the POW problem, said that no change of policy was involved: We would like anyone to see the prisoners in North Vietnam." But Rep. Leslie Aspin, D., Wis., saying that Amnesty plans to resume an inspection effort launched last spring, said he was "suspicious" that Saigon, supported by the State Department, had kept the organization from visiting prison camps in the South Mr. Sieverts said that South the position that the Red Cross qualifies under the Geneva convention as a group that may conduct neutral international inspection of prison camps. Mr. Sieverts said that Amnesty, on the other hand, is a "political organisation" whose impartiality is doubted in South Vietnam and

Apollo-16 Gets New Fuel Tank ${f To Meet Deadline}$

CAPE KENNEDY, Feb. 4 (UPI). Apollo-16's damaged fuel tank has been replaced and the space-craft and its Saturn-5 rocket will be returned to the launch pad next Tuesday, the space agency announced.

Astronauts John Young, Them-as Mottingly and Charles Duke are scheduled for launch to the moon April 16. Tuesday's more back to the launch pad is expected to enable engineers to meet that date.

The 363-foot rocket-spacecraft combination was hauled back to the Saturn hangar last Thursday after a launch pad testing fallure damaged a 17-inch fuel tank in the command module.

The spacecraft was lifted off the Saturn and moved back to the manned spacecraft operations building, where the tank was replaced over the weekend. The space agency said the moonship is being returned to the Saturn hangar today and mounted on the rocket Saturday.

The Negotiation Way

As a result of President Nixon's disclosure of the secret peace talks and the publication of Hanoi's nine-point plan and Washington's counter-proposal, Americans and the world for the first time can examine the real negotiating postures taken by both sides in secret, rather than public proposals framed with an eye to propaganda advantage.

The full price asked by Hanoi for the release of American prisoners is shown to include not only withdrawal of American troops but also large-scale American payment of reparations, plus American cooperation in replacing the Saigon regime with one amenable to a coalition government controlled by the Communists. Hanoi's asking price, however, is not necessarily its fallback position, which could only be expected to emerge toward the end of a long, intensive negotiation. In this sense, the six moetings last year between Henry Kissinger and North Vietnamese Politburo member Le Duc Tho were little more than an opening round.

Why Hanoi failed to continue the talks at this very high level can only be a matter of speculation. The most likely reason is that the approach of dry weather and a new fighting season, with American ground combat capability much reduced, has tempted the Communists to revive military action in hope of shaking Saigon's grip on South Vietnam before negotiations resume, Similarly, the probability of large-scale American air retaliation for the expected offensive may well have been the reason why the President chose this particular moment to publicize his most recent peace proposal.

For its part, the United States has taken a more flexible position than previously. Hanol's nine points have been accepted as the basis of negotiations. In its eight-point plan and separate reconstruction offer, the United States has responded to Hanoi's proposals point by point, making it evident that seven of the nine points are clearly negotiable. On one of the two remaining sticking points-Hanoi's demand for an American aid cut-off to Saigon along with troop withdrawals—the United States has proposed to limit its economic and military ald to Saigon by agreement with Hanoi if North Vietnam would accept similar limita-

Even on the most difficult of Hanol's hine points, the future government of South Vietnam. American concessions have also been offered. The proposal of a coalition electoral commission, along with President Thied's piedge to resign five months after a final agreement and one month before elections, suggests the possibility of further movement through negotiation. Apart from the timing of Thieu's resignation. Washington appears to be flexible on the powers of the electoral commission, which could in fact approach those of an interim coalition government.

Re-escalation of the ground war, followed by the almost certain step-op in the American air war, will neither end the conflict nor advance a settlement. But imaginative new proposals from Hanoi and a resumption of high-level secret talks might accomplish

The New Malthusians

The new Malthusianism, rapidly becoming a major intellectual current in the West. fundamentally challenges traditional wisdom about the desirability of growth, progress and expansion. That challenge finds dramatic expression in "A Blueprint for Survival," just issued by a group of British ecologists. Long-term human survival on this planet, they argue, requires reversal of the trends that have dominated the earth since the Rev. Thomas Mathus first sounded his warning about population growing faster than the food supply. Under their prescription, populations must be cut, standards of living reduced, much of modern technology abandoned and the great urban concentrations of humanity replaced with a multitude of small communities. The goal would be a stable society and an economy which could persist indefinitely in equilibrium with the earth's resources.

the "blueprint" entails reducing the population by 50 per cent or more over the next two centuries. The private automobile would vanish, and so would many of the common household appliances. Agriculture would have to be pursued without most synthetic fertilizers, pesticides and other chemicals that have produced the last century's enormous increase in food supply and in farm labor productivity. Every possible natural resource would have to be recycled to minimise new production from virgin raw materials. And London-to say nothing of New York and other of the world's great cities-would have to be broken up because of the intolerable long-run burden they impose on the environment.

Is such a program practical? Can politicians, for example, be expected to campaign on slogans of "Down With Children," "No Automobiles in Any Garage," or "Only One-Quarter of a Chicken in Every Pot"? And one or more industrially advanced nations were willing to embark on such a program, could its course be long maintained if the people making the needed sacrifices saw that other nations were both expanding their numbers and raising their living standards?

Even within a single nation, could such a program be initiated without setting off bitter struggles about the degree of sacrifice to be demanded of different g sups? The current bickering in this country over the minor dislocations caused by wage and price controls provides basis for pessimism. Nevertheless, there may still be time_but not For Britain, to take a specific example, much-to face up to the reality that a finite earth has finite resources and therefore cannot be subjected to endlessly escalating demands and drains.

If man will not take the needed measures rationally and in good time to adjust his requirements to the planet's capabilities. then modern civilization will prove impossible to sustain. Sooner or later, in that case, the necessary readjustments will be accomplished by wars, famines and other catastrophes far crueler than even the most extreme sacrifices envisioned by the "blueprint" of the new Malthusians.

Sadat in Moscow

A perplexed President Sadat has gone to Moscow to seek guidance and help from his Russian hosts. As in October, when the Egyptian leader last rushed to Russia for talks with the Kremlin leadership, he is faced with the dilemma of making war or peace with Israel without being able to do either effectively. The big difference between then and now is that 1971-"the year of destiny" in which the issue was to be resolved one way or another-has now passed. With it has gone President Sadat's doadline. . .

Once again the Kremlin leaders are expected to restrain President Sadat. It can be assumed that the Russians will not stand in the way of renewed efforts to start exchanges between Egypt and Israel under the auspices of the UN's Gunnar Jarring. The Soviet Union is known to be anxious for a. reopening of the Suez Canal, as long as the United States does not get any credit. -From the Financial Times (London).

Leaving Bhutto to Stew

President Bhutto is being blamed for stalking out of the Commonwealth, but, dispassionately, his plight is great and his options are severely limited. Having sensibly declined to break off relations with major powers. he had only the Commonwealth available for moderately meaningless gestures.

When Mr. Bhntto moved, precipitately, to the presidential mansion he acted fast and fairly. He began meaningful internal reform. He set Sheikh Mujib free, without haggling. He did not attempt to wreck Bangladesh (and India's stewardship of it) by personal blackmail. Yet what has been the Indian response? Has Mrs. Gandhi shown any willingness to discuss rapid repatriation of the tens of thousands of Pakistani soldiers she holds prisoner? Has there been any Indian policy bot leaving Bhutto to stew in someone else's juice?

The Muskie-Rogers Wrangle

By James Reston

WASHINGTON.-President Nixon is apparently going to allow the members of his cabinet to get decily involved in the con-troversies of the Presidential election campaign, and this raises some obvious difficulties and

Particularly in the field of foreign and defense policy, the United States is entering upon a year of historic and delicate diplomatic negotiations, in which consultation and cooperation between the Republican executive and the Democratic Congress

The Vietnam peace negotiations, the strategic arms talks with the Soviet Union, the Presidramatic but difficult effort to reach a new understanding with China, the world mone-tary and trade negotiations—all these, and more, suggest that tho nation is now approaching a period of unusual diplomatic and political activity at one and the

Honest Differences

Probably it won't be possible to keep the simplistic arguments and challenges of the election from interfering with the administration's negotiations. After all, there are hard and honest differences between the candidates and the parties over the best terms of peace and trade, and the allocation of limited resources to the competing claims of military security abroad and civil order and social security at home. This is really what the Presidential campaign is all about.

This is not, however, a new problem. In every Presidential election since 1944, when Presi-dent Roosevelt and Tom Dewsy, the Republican nominee, brought John Foster Dulles to Washington to try to reconcile the conflicts between Presidential politics and foreign policy, Presidents have recognized the dangers of sending their principal cabinet officers, and particularly the secretaries of state and defense, into the election battle.

Pugnacious Men

George Marshall would not allow himself to be engaged in Presidential political discussion, let alone argument, when he was at the State Department. Even Dean Acheson and Dulles, who were pugnacious, partisan men, avoided open political debate with the Presidential candidates of the opposition party. And Dean Rusk, who revered Marshall, managed to keep out of the campaign dogfights over foreign policy, even when Lyndon Johnson, no easy taskmaster or nonpartisan philosopher, often gosded him into the election pit. All this dreary history is recalled here, because, earlier than might have been expected, we now have Secretary of State Rogers engaged in a front-page argument with Sen. Edmund Muskle of Maine over the administration's and Muskie's conflicting views over how to end the war in Vietnam.

There is plenty of room for point here is why this has to be Rogers's argument. Why get the principal member of the cabinet, and the State Department, involved in a political alley fight with Muskie and the Senate, which has to approve Nixon's and Rogers's foreign policy compromises on Vietnam, trade, arms and money?

It is easy to understand the President's foreign and political problems. He has put forward and publicized a compromise plan for ending the Victoria war. He him and to our readers for not wants the enemy to agree to a spotting it ourselves.

cease-fire, the neutralization of Indochina, and an election process which he knows the enemy will not accept.

Muskie says publicly this will not work, and suggests a simple formula for getting out of Vietnam: Let the enemy agree to release all prisoners of war and guarantee the safety of the Amer-ican expeditionary force as it withdraws, Whereupon, he is attacked by the secretary of state for interfering with the admin-istration's negotiations and, what is more serious, with making an "inappropriate" speech which is "harmful" to the national in-

Serious Charge

That is a serious charge, the implication of which is that Nixon and Regers have the answer to the "national interest" and Muskie should support them, even if he thinks the "national interest" would be better served by his own plan.
"I believe," said Muskie, "that [the enemy] would respond se-

WASHINGTON.—Hidden behind riously to the terms I have suggested. That would mean the killing of American boys in Vietnam would come to an end sooner. I do not think it is against the national interest to promote that goal."

Well, who knows who is right? Both sides have an argument, but Marshall, Dulles, Acheson and Rusk are probably right: The Presidential campaign argument should not be the work of the secretary of state.

It should be left to the chairman of the Republican National Committee, or to Ron Ziegler, the President's press secretary, or even to the President himself, who is the leader of the Repub-

Gresham's Law

C.L. Sulzberger is right (IRT, Jan. 28) to urge reform of American methods of representation abroad, although our confusion of purpose is greater than any reforms of method alone can cure. But Sulzberger is too hasty when he repeals, nay, reverses, Greaham's Law. He says that "in diplomacy as in monetary affairs, one sees good money driving out the bad," Ales, in diplomacy, as in currency, the law which Gresham stated four centuries ago still holds, that the bad drives out the good.

needs the support of the Senate, and particularly of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, to get the President's policies on China, arms control, trade, and monetary policy into law. Life has to go on beyond the election.

Rogers has enough trouble overseas and in his own department, without running political inter-ference in the Presidential campaign against Muskie. For the next nine months, the problems of China, the Soviet Union, arms control, trade and monetary policy should be enough. George Marshall and Dean Rusk were probably right: Secretaries of state should stick to their jobs, and leave politics to the pros.

ROME.—The conclusion of Italy's present political crisis is not yet within sight; political parties are still unable to reach an agreement on the problem of divorce, and on the advisability of a popular referendum to confirm or repeal it. The law on diverce is barely one year old. It has always been opposed by the Vatican, whose weight on Italy's internal affairs is still quite significant, as well as by the majority party, the Christian Demo-crats. Divorce is also opposed by the neo-Faccist MSI (Italian Social Movement), whose leader, Giorgio Almirante, is the happy legal husband of two wives. After the divorce law was approved in November, 1970, a Catholic extremist, Gabrio Lombardi, immediately got busy, with the help of the Papal Curia, to have it repealed. In a few months he convinced the necessary number of citizens to sign a petition ask-ing the government, on the bases of the constitution, to organize a popular referendum on the mat-ter. At first, Christian Democrats used the threat of the referendum to cow their partners of the Center Left coalition into making a series of concessions on minor political points, Now, Christian Demo-crats themselves are atraid of the referendum, as their party has more urgent problems. They fear that a national confrontation on divorce .might help the coming into being of a second Catholic party, whose existence would break the Christian Democrats in two. As a matter of fact, Catholic extremists have been unhappy for years over their party's participaand in its endorsement of long overduo, though largely watered down, social reforms. MADRID, Feb. 4 (UPI)— Madrid, the liberally inclined evening newspaper which was closed down indefinitely by the Spanish government 10 weeks ago, today conceded defeat in its fight for revival. Its employees were told that "the paper is dead" and that no further attempt will be made to find a formula for its reappearance.

The decision was announced at an assembly attended by most of the 221 employees, many of whom had more than 30 years of service with the 60,000-circulation paper.

"Companeros [colleagues], we are all in the street," the employees' elected representatives told them after a meeting with management. The paper is dead. The company will be wound up." Silence greeted the announcement. It came as no surprise

Payment Asked For U.S. Mines at Chile Debt Talks

PARIS, Feb. 4 (UPI) —The United States has raised the problem of compensation for national-ized U.S. mining interests in Chile at an international conference on Chile's large external debt, conference sources said to-

They said John R. Petty, U.S. Under Secretary of the Treasury, raised the issue yesterday when the 16-nation conference started reviewing Chile's demand for a rescheduling of part of its foreign-debt payments, the sources

Mr. Petty did so shortly after Chilean Foreign Minister Clodo-miro Almeyda, in a detailed re-view of Chile's economic recovery program, asked for a suspension of reimbursements scheduled for the period of time from Nov. 9, 1971, to Dec. 31, 1974.

The American delegate to the conference did not, however, make formal settlement of the nationaligation issue a sine qua non for epproval of Chile's demand, the sources said. The United States is by far the largest creditor of Chile, which is asking for permission to defer payments on about one third of its $3.9-billion external debt.

French Ministry Admits Goof on Freebie' Phones

Kaunda Cracks Down On Boyhood Friend

LUSAKA, Zambia, Feb 4 • Rettters).-President Kenneth Kounda today outlawed Zambia's fivemonth-old opposition United Progressive party and ordered the detention without trial of 123 of its leaders. Among those seized in a dawn roundup this morning was the party chief, Simon Kapwepwe, 49, a boybood playmate of the president and a former vice-president of Zambia. Mr. Kaunda announced the crackdown in o nationwide broadcast to the four million Zambians at breakfast time.

Violence and Destruction' The 49-year-old president, who has ruled the landlocked central African country since independence from Britain in 1964, said the Progressive party had been bent on violence and destruction.

He added, "The forces of law and order are on the alert." Mr. Kapwepwe, a father of eight, was awakened at two o'clock this morning by police who began to search his homa in the exclusive Lusaka suburb of Woodlands.

At about five o'clock the tall, bearded politician was driven away, his wife, Mrs. Chilufya Kapwepwe, said, adding 'He's in politics. One must expect this."

Country Calm First reports indicated that the country had reacted calmly to the president's move, which Western diplomats thought not wholly unexpected. It follows minor acts of violence in which gasoline bombs have been thrown ond people beaten and also—Mr. Kaunda ol-leged today—threats on the lives of national leaders.

Moscow-Frankfurt

Air Route Is Opened PRANKFURT, Feb. 4 (AP).— Regular air traffic between Moscow and Frankfurt was inaugu-rated today with the arrival here of an Aeroflot plane. The Urushin-62, carrying a special complement of Aeroflot personnel and Soviet and German journalists, arrived here 20 minutes early. Tomorrow West Germany's Lufthansa airline will make its maiden Frankfurt-Moscow run with a Boeing-737.

Each airline will make the three-hour trip twice, weekly. .:

An airline should be big enough to have 747's

...and small enough to pamper you.

Most airlines come in two sizes. Big and impersonal. Or small and provincial,

The exception is TAP, the Intercontinental Airline of Portugal. It's the airline that doesn't fit into any of the sterectypes, so it can give you the best of both worlds.

Technologically, TAP of-fers all the big-airline advantages. The spacious new 747-B jets with over 15.5 billion passenger miles of experience behind them, as well as thousands of technical improvements over the earlier models. In honor of Portugal's great tradition of travel and discovery, we call our planes, 747-B Navigator Jets.

Our schedule's not a bit provincial either. As of April 1, we'll begin 747-B Navigator let service between New York and Lisbon and Lisbon and Luanda. In all, we'll help you discover four continents, fifteen countries and 34 cities. But when it comes to service, all similarity to the big impersonal airlines ends. On TAP you get the kind of personal attention that's possible only on an airline of our size. We handpick our personnel for their courtesy, competence and pride in Portuguese hospitality. They appreciate your flying TAP, because we're still not big enough to take your business for granted.

So next time you're flying to Europe, Africa, North America or South America, try the airline that's just your size, TAP, the Intercontinental Airline of Portugal.

A New Museum of Popular Arts

By Michael Gibson

DARIS, Jan. 4 (IET).—A cool blue-black glass cube set in the Bois de Boulogne (next to the Jardin d'Acclimatation) and looking not unlike the mystic monolith in Stanley Kubrick's *2001-A Space Odyssey," was inaugurated this week by French Minister of Cultural Affairs Jacques Duhamel as the National Museum of Popular Arts and Traditions (Musée National des Arts et Traditions Populaires).

On this occasion the museum, which has been in the process of moving in over the past four years, opened its impressive besement gallery to the public. In it more than 4,000 objects and 3,000 are on view.

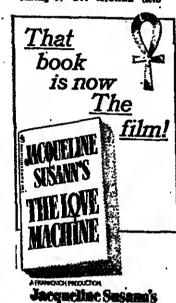

The gallery itself is shaped like a grid with two lateral "avenues"

Conceived primarily for a program of technical research, with objects classified according to typological and ecological criteria, these very modern showcases are at the same time presented in an exceptionally striking and intelligible way. As a result, the visitors whose interest is not at all technical can enjoy looking at them and be impressed by the coherence of the display.

Showcases contain a wide variety of objects related to all rural activities in pre-industrial environments—a collection of different types of yokes for oxen for instance, another of wooden plows, another of the material used by shepherds. Others are devoted to musical instruments, religious beliefs, puppet theatres, etc., and there is an astonishing and varied collection of bowling balls and pins.

What strikes the layman and the specialist alike is the functional simplicity of some of the objects displayed (such as a lognan's sled made of a single hefty forked branch), a simplicity that often has enormous charm.

The two avenues on either side of the gallery are lined with alcoves containing 13 screens for the projection of transparencies and 12 video screens with earphones. These are activated by sings on sale in the hall. They show documents and short video films on a variety of subjects related to the exhibits. Thus one film shows an old countrywoman who has a reputation as story-teller (with French subtitles because she speaks in the Languedoc patois), and analyzes her narrative technique. The purpose of the venture is first of all to preserve and study the artifacts of traditional culture in pre-industrial France. In addition to this function of preservation, the institution is intended to analyze and compare a European society's past and present relationships to nature and to urban life, in order better to understand our present approach to the industrial civilization we live in, and to foresee how our approach both to the rural and the urban milieu will evolve in the future.

Another Way of Doing Business

The Art Market

By Souren Melikian

PARIS (IHT),-For the first time since the Napoleonic era, people who want to sell art or art objects in France are no longer obliged to make a blind choice of an auctioneer or a dealer. They can get expert advice on where, when and how to sell from a former auctioneer, Philippe Rheims, France has been exceedingly slow to accept new selling methods. About two years ago, techniques began to change under pressure from the young generation of experts and dealers. The methods are inching their into that most conservative sector of the art market, the auction salesroom. Thus Philippe Rheims's move a year ago into the consulting field was viewed by many as revolutionary.

For ten years, Mr. Rheims had been a partner in the auction group founded by himself, his Maurice Rheims and René George Laurin. His sales at the Hotel Drouot and the Palais Galliéra were successful and there was every reason to assume that he was satisfied with his role as an auctioneer.

Then, after a brilliant round of sales (the last of which included some bronzes by Daumier), he sold his share in the firm and set himself up as a consultant. The French auctioneers tried hard to pretend that they couldn't care less and failed miserably. In fact, they tried to persuade Mr. Rheims, who was calling himself an expert en objets Cart et ventes publiques (expert on art objects and public auctions) to drop the "ventes publiques" from his title. They

Mr. Rheims opened an office on Oct. 1, 1970, at 26 Avenue George-V, persuaded Jeanec Schöller, the wife of a wellknown dealer, to become his assistant, hired a staff and laid down his ground rules. He would advise owners of works of art how best to dispose of them, at auction or on the private market, first appraising the work in Above all, these people like to question, with the assistance of know the price beforehand. established specialists, and then advising the owner where to sell it under the most favorable conditions.

Two Percent

His fee was to be-and is to this day-that of the average expert-2 percent at the most, and less when very large sums are involved. He assumed that, with 10 years of experience as an active auctioneer, he had acquired a fairly good idea of where and how things should be sold. He based a discreet advertising campaign on these assets.

For a while, many professionals sniggered. Then it began to get around that Mr. Rheims was not wanting for business. Criticism became more reserved. When it became known last June that 17 pieces of furniture, all from the Henri de Rothschild collection, had been negotiated through the Rheims consulting office, everybody began taking notice. The deal had included a top-quality secrétaire à abattoni by David Roentgen and such objects as a pair of Louis XIV torchères in ebony with ormolu fittings. They sold for 300,000 francs.

There have been many more sales. It was through the Rheims office that a Kellenistic gold crown, which he said had been Alexander the Great's, was sold to a royal buyer to be presented. as a gift to the Shah of Tran. Through him again, a huge surtout de table, made by Boin Taburet early in this century, was sold to the monarch who happens to own the only other one in existence.

A pair of religious scenes by the Master of Saint Severin, a late 15th-century painter of the School of Cologne, became available for sale. In quality, these works rank among the greatest of the period, if one is to judge from the photographs. They had been in the Martin Leroy collection in the 19th century but were not widely known. The Societé des Amis du Louvre acquired them for 260,000 francs to present to the museum—the deal has just been made.

So much for the spectacular side of Mr. Rheims's operation The way things have worked out in practice is significant because the potential impact of this method on the art market.

Another Clientele

When he started, Mr. Rheims thought most people would seek him out for advice about public auctions. He soon discovered that a large clientele existed with a definite preference for private

These people wanted the kind of absolute discretion that even the most discreet auctioneer cannot offer-works do, after all, have to be shown to the public when they come up for sale. have imitators.

Mr. Rheims also found that a number of people will not send anything to any auction (only 10 percent of the works entrusted to him are sold publicly) and furthermore refuse to sell through a dealer because they assume his profit must be considerable car. tainly more than Mr. Rheims's Thus, it became clear that the consultant-middleman had a new and potentially very important role to play on the French are Another discovery was that many people who were looking for certain objects would come to him for advice on where to buy, how and with what guarantees. In Mr. Rheims's office is s board with green tags bearing short descriptions of items want ed by potential buyers ("Wanted: A Louis XIV ebony regulateur clock) and yellow tags with descriptions of available objects (an 18th-century 12-leaf Chinese screen, decorated on both sides

In this additional capacity as a broker, Philippe Rheims has found his knowledge of great collections an asset. He says it makes it easy for him to determine who is likely to be wanting what, without having to offer the objects to a large number of possible buyers a process that can kill a work of art, commercially. The Sweater Girls of 1972

PARIS, Feb. 4 (IHT) -- Women -buy 2 sweater these days the way they buy a new lipstick: old measurements. to raise their morale.

Since Sonia Rykiel, a decade or so ago, first focused on sweaters, she has turned what used to be a boring pedestrian piece of clothing into a hot the whole fashion industry.

France's Opéra-Comique To Change Name, Purpose

By David Stevens

DARIS, Feb. 4 (IHT) .- The historic Opera-Comique will disappear from Parisian musical life on Jan 1, 1973, to be replaced by the Opéra-Studio, a "national center of lyric theater" that will be devoted mainly to professional training and the presentation of contemporary and experimental works.

This was one of several announcements made today by the Cultural Ministry, continuing its program of regionalization and monting. The Opera-Comique orchestra is to become the Orchestre de la Région Parisieume, and a new regional orchestra and opera of Aquitaine will be created in the Bordeaux area—similar to those created in Lyons in 1969, and to start in the Strasbourg area next fall · Although the theatrical form known as opera comique-meaning merely opern with spoken dialogue—is long dead, and the Opera-Comique theater has been steadily declining in artistic quality and attendance for years, the changeover will certainly be accom-panied by much anguish.

Salle Favart—the third of this name to occupy the site just off the Boulevard des Italiens, and the home of the Opera-Comique since 1840—is the stronghold of the French operatic repertory in Paris, and the object of much sentimental attachment. Although its days of glory are long past, it has been the site of many historic musical events—the premieres of Bizet's "Carmen" and Debussy's "Pelicas et Melisande," to name two.

The Salle Pavart is expected to be closed in April to permit a transformation that will adapt it to its new function. Louis Erlo, director of the Lyons Opera, will take over the new institution, where the repertory is expected to include traditional works along with modern and experimental ones. Mr. Erlo has won considerable attention with a similar approach in Lyons where, since his appointment as director in 1969, he has succeeded in developing a large and mainly youthful audience for lyric theater.

The Opera-Studio reportedly will have financial autonomy, in contrast with the subordinate status the present Opera-Comique has in a single administrative organization with the larger Opera. The Opera itself, as already amounced, will be beginning a new regime next year under the direction of Rolf Liebermann, now intendant of the Hamburg State Opera, with Georg Solti as musical to sweaters (for Bisirot du Tricot). One of the most liberated designers in the business, she has wild patchworks, clashing colors and happily naive patterns. One sweater is nothing but beige lambswool but it has two ladybugs on the chest plus another one wandering up the sleeve. Silly as it may sound, the ladybugs give the sweater a whole new dimension

Worth Watching

Jean Rychter is one of the lesser-known names but well worth watching. In five years, the firm has quintupled its business. Eyether used to be a deadpan, wholesale sweater house until Jean Rychter's son, Gerard, took over Gerard, the divided took over. Gérard, who studied economics and polítics, is a nice young man with wavy blond hair and sweet myonic eyes behind tortoise-rim glasses. He is so exceedingly shy that he once thought of hiring a professional actor when asked to speak on the French radio.

But the lamb turns into a linn when it comes to the business which he knows inside out. The technical part, that is, Mr. Rychter consults with Dany Huntsiger, a talented designer who also works for Courrèges sportswear, for the creative part of the busi-ness. Courreges, by the way, is making a killing with his knits tribbed, with those famous two

Mr. Rychter's first move on joining the family firm was to buy 12 ultra modern and elaborete knitting machines. He spends days figuring out new stitches and textures. In five years," he said, "we have developed every possible stitch in the business: braid, jacquard, lace, and also cloth imitations." One of his spring sweaters looks as if it were made of cloth for bluejeans, a technique, Mr. Rychter said, that has not been used stace the 30s. He even has flannel-like knits, obtained by washing and boiling the yarn. Now, he is experimenting with cro-cheted lace upon lace, an idea

he picked up from an oldfarhioned tablecloth. Latest Fads

Style-wise, the Rychter collections have kept scoring on all the latest fads: pop, kitsch and last season a fruit phase which meant stylized little trees or red apples on a striped back-ground. This season, Rychter is right up there again with a mixture of stripes and dots, an arsenic and old lace look, gingham patterns and bright colors,

Today's sweaters are exciting, Mr. Rychter explained, because they have become technical miracles, Whereas the oldfashioned sweaters were cut with a dumb hand and too often finished with that ugly zipper or buttons in the back, today's sweaters, no matter how complicated they may be, come in one piece. Although the tightfitting sweaters have been a huge success, they are now on their way out. The newest ones have fluffy, wide balloon sleeves and a short, blousy body, Mr. Rychter said that when fashion runs to pants, sweaters tend to be shorter because they are worn over the pants. When skirts are in style, sweaters become thinner and longer because they go un-derneath. Right now, he said, we are still in a pants phase. Although Mr. Rychter likes to follow fairly sober lines, be also has some wild numbers. One is a reproduction of the America flag, "That one sold very well," he said "and everywhere—except in the United States."

LONDON THEATER

World Where Nothing Is Fixed

By John Walker

ONDON, Feb. 4 (IHT),-In two weeks, we have had a couple of remarkable plays, both concerned with the contemporary disappearance of absolute moral standards but having nothing else in common but quality. At the Royal Court, E. A. White-head's "Alpha Beta" showed how social conditioning and conformity could do irreparable damage to a married couple. They were trapped by their emotional belief in standards that were, at best, irrelevant to their way of Tom Stoppard, in his extra-ordinarily funny comedy "Jump-ers," a National Theatre production at the Old Vic, depicts a world where nothing is fixed, where every point of view seems to have equal validity. The effect on his characters is just as crippling. They, too, are trapped.

It is a future world: Capt. Scott. has just abandoned his companion Oates on the moon, the arch-bishop of Canterbury has doubts about God, the ruling political party veers towards totalitarian-ism, and the police are boneheaded and beavy-footed. Which is to say, it is a world only slightly askew from our own. Their traumatic event, as ours, is an astronaut walking on the moon. the final realization that man is not at the center of the universe.

Couple

Mr. Stoppard, also, deals with a married couple: Dottie (Diana Rigg), a musical comedy star who has retired into neurosis because she cannot adapt her beliefs to the changing times, and George (Michael Hordern), a philosopher who clings tenaciously to a faith in God and goodness even though he can advance no intellectual justification for such attitudes. He is the sort of man who begins a lecture by saying: "Secondly," and conducts a passionate self-defeating argument in defense of his convictions.

Miss Rigg and Mr. Hordern give superb performances. Mr. Hordern, indeed, thrusting his bands deep into his pockets and taking off on an ape-like lope, screwing up his face as if he had just sucked on a lemon as he realizes that he has blundered down another philosophical cul-de-sac, is giving the best performance of his distinguished career.

Mr. Stoppard deals with his subject in the terms of farce, happy to digress for the sake of the joke, or to add a music ball routine to his crazily logical plot that revolves around the murder of a logical positivist who is shot while acting as the base man in a pyramid of acrobats. The vicerecounts Center on the Rue du Dragon. , chancellor of the university, you cause he is hung-up over his friend, who also was his wife's name. Jumper, and hands out lover, and his son and daughter. professorships to the more athletic academics.

I feel that Mr. Stoppard starts in the middle of his play-say, at the moment when George, his face smeared with shaving cream, clutching a bow and arrow in one hand and a tortoise in the other, opens the door to a police inspector investigating the murder who is carrying an LP record and a large bouquet of rosesand works outwards in both directions.

At one point, the name of Wittgenstein is invoked, and, like that philosopher, Mr. Stoppard plays language games, juggling lan-guage, truth, and logic with a serious, hilarious intent.

The Royal Shakespeare Com-pany's production of Edward Albee's "All Over" at the Aldwych Theatre approaches perfection in Peter Hall's direction and the acting of Peggy Ashcroft, Angela Lansbury, David Waller, Shella Hancock, Sebastian Shaw, David Markham and Patience Collier. The play itself, unfortunately, is something else, a finicky, sterile exercise, couched in stiff, formal language.

The theme is love and death, A family is gathered around the bedside of a great man, waiting for his end. His wife is there understand, is also a gymnast be- and also his mistress, his best who are both self-acknowledged failures. In their attitudes to the dying man, their reminiscences and reactions to each other, they define themselves mainly as unconvincing, egocentric bores.

> Michael Croft's production of Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet" at the Shaw Theatre is plain and unexciting, as muted as the colors of the costumes, brown, beige and green, that make Verona seem a dull city. The only individual performances come from Joseph O'Conor as Capulet and Nigel Terry as Tybalt, seeth-ing through tightly clenched lips.

Sinead Cusack is a surprisingly lackluster Juilet, ill-served by Constance Chapman's over-emphatic nurse, while Simon Ward treats Romeo as if he were a younger Hamlet, brooding and melancholy. A great deal of cure has obviously gone into the pro-duction, revealing itself in such details as the atmospheric use of bells, joyous and solemn, but the result will only please those who like Shakespeare without frills or, indeed, thrills.

John-Michael Tebelak's rock musical "Godspell," based on the Gospel according to St. Matthew, has transferred from the Roundhouse to Wyndham's Theatre.

Speculators Bet Dollar Upswing Will Be Slow

LONDON, Feb. 3 (AP-DJ).markets may be s big casino for speculators under the currency realignment of last Dec. 18 and the play will be nectic for weeks and maybe months to come.

That is the way bankers, economists, monetary experts and formonetary situation. The assestment has disturbing implications for people in foreign trade and ational business for it indicates that the United States will have difficulty in trying to rebuild confidence in the dollar. But the international companies and speculators who transferred funds to capitalize on money differentials are not likely to lose. An analysis of what is happening in Europe's money markets shows that this is a cesino where the really smart money has only a slim chance of Profit Up. 30% Profits for some speculators msy be running at about 25-30 percent when computed on an annual hasis. In fact, profits of getting out of dollars toto other currencies are so tremendous that little immediate incentive exists for transferring funds to the United States, money traders in Europe say. Central bank statistics indicate that, indeed, little money is going westward across the Atlantic, as the United States still hopes will happen.

"Since mid-January the pound sterling has moved up from $2.55 to over $2.60," one London foreign exchange dealer points out-That is a gain of 2.25 percent in three weeks time. Stop and figure out what that increase amounts to on an annual basis. That is the profit that has been

Gold Plunges $1. After Trade Pact

LONDON, Peb. 4 (AP-DJ) .-The price of gold dropped sharply on European markets and the dollar advanced as a result of today's U.S.-EEC agreement on trade concessions.

The London free-market price of gold was quoted at $46.90-$47.20 an ounce in late dealings, down $1 from yesterday. At the same time, the dollar gained 45

· In Zurich, the other; major gold-trading center, bullion drop-ped to $47-$47.50 from $47.80-$43.20 yesterday. Moving in an opposite direction, the dollar rose o $.8650-5.8690 Swiss francs from 3.8580-3.8610 france Thursday.

Prior to today's agreement. there had been growing fears that the Dec. 18 currency realignment would be undermined and might even collapse, either because the United States would fail to exact legislation devaluing the dollar against gold or because the legislation would contain amendments unacceptable to America's trading partners.

These fears reached a peak Wednesday, when gold rose to a post-war closing high of $49.35 at London and the dollar took a sharp buffeting on European foreign exchange markets. Today's late or closing interbank rates for the dollar on the stnajor international exchanges were as follows:

made by any speculator who left his money in sterling or got into

Money speculators have latched carto a simple rule which events in the last few years seem to uphold: When & currency weakns, the downturn may be sharp. When a weak currency strengthens, the improvement is likely to be very slow. And in the short term, downswings of a weak currency are sharper than are any of its subsequent upswings.

In Geneva, the finance office of one major multivational comsliding down to its floor, how can we lose by having our money on this side of the Atlantic? When it hits the floor we can reassess the situation. But we know that improvement in the dollar will be slow, so there is little risk of an upside bounce catching us off

He emphasizes that the money profit in interest terms of recent ferential now existing between lower U.S. interest rates and rates in Europe. Thus, some sources aver that even a decline in rates in Europe may not be enough to stimulate a flow of

FINANCIAL NEWS AND NOTES

U.S.-Make Car Sales Up 4 Percent

Sales of U.S.-built cars in January rose 41 percent from the level of January 1971, but con-tinued to be well below record levels. Auto in-dustry analysts say the month did not produce any signs of the expected first-quarter upturn in sales. Sales of imported cars totaled about 108,000, barely edging the prior year's level of 106,800. But analysts say that, on a daily rate basis, foreign car sales showed their first upturn since they began to slide in Esptember. The four U.S. sufo-makers sold 609,406 cars in the month, compared with 585,664 in January 1970. On a daily rate basis, sales were stronger than those of the like month in the past two years, but only average compared with the levels of the

Mannesmann to Close Some Plants

Mannesmann, of West Germany, says it plans to close production progressively in its facilities in Grossenbaum and Witten and the drawing mill at the Hiden plant. The company says about 1,800 workers will be affected by the closure, which it says is necessary because of deteriorating steel-pipe sales. Most of the af-fected workers will be employed in other Mannesmann plants.

Low-Cost Waste Converter Claimed

Garrett Research & Development Co., a whollyowned subsidiary of Occidental Petroleum Corp., says it is pilot-testing a new process for profit ably converting municipal solid waste into salable industrial heating fuels, glass and magnetic metals. At the heart of the process is a pyrolysis reactor, the equipment that breaks down organic refuse in an oxygen-free, high-temperature envi-ronment under atmospheric pressure; the end products include char, or pure charcoal, gas and low-sulphur fuel off. Garret claims the process is practically pollution-free, less costly and more efficient than other waste-conversion schemes. Officials estimate it would cost about $5 a ton to produce converted rafuse worth $6 a ton. A 2,000-tons-per-day processing plant, meeting the solid-waste disposal needs of a city of half a million people, would cost shout $12 million, the company figures.

U.S. Steel to Reopen Factory

U.S. Steel reports it plans to reopen its idle steelmaking plant in Youngstown, Ohio, within the next two weeks, U.S. Steel says it will reopen five of the mill's 12 open-hearth furnaces and one of the mill's blast furnaces. Rolling mill operations are scheduled to begin Feb. 16. The plant and its work force of 2,700 men have been idle since July. Youngstown is the last of the major U.S. Steel plants closed in July and August and now reopened.

Watney Takeover Bid Rejected

International Distillers & Vintners has advised its shareholders against accepting the £125 million hid from Watney Mann. Watney, which already owns about 38 percent of International Distillers, launched its takeover bid last week. The offer is in the form of a share exchange. U.S. Corporate Profit Rises, Executives See Good '72

Bearing out autumn forecasts for further economic recovery, fourthquarter corporate earnings in the United States climbed from the like period in 1970, and executives in many industries are predicting continued improvement for the looks for good growth in demand, current quarter and the whole

These are the findings of a Wall Street Journal tabulation of fourth-quarter profits and of in-terviews with executives of major industries in the United States. The tabulation shows that after-tax profits of 464 companies rose 25.3 percent in the fourth quarter from the like period in 1970. . More than half of the sharp increase was due to a turnaround at General Motors Corp., which had posted a large loss in the fourth quarter of 1970 because of a strike. Nevertheless, the survey indicates the rest of U.S. industry is quite healthy overall. Sub-tracting GM from the tabulation, earnings of the remaining 463

The negative effects of the price freeze and Phase 2 price and profit-margin controls, analysts say, have been substantially offset by improved productivity, rigorous cost-cutting and the promotion of more profitable cars.

Profit Rise Expected First-quarter profits for Ford and Chrysler are expected to rise sharply from the like period last year. And GM is expected to re-port earnings close to those of 1971's first quarter, when production surged to refill dealers' depleted inventories after the 1970

Many executives in the industry are optimistic about their 1972 prospects, but there is an air of uncertainty. "We are convinced that we are on a cyclical upturn . and that we are right in being optimistic about 1973, but unfortunately incoming orders don't validate our assumptions," says the financial head of one large steel company.

A look at the prospects for some other major industries follows: OIL: First-quarter carnings of oil companies are likely to average lower than a year ago-or, at best, the companies will reslica

PULP AND PAPER: Most companies say the outlook for earnings improvement is generally bright in 1972. Demand in key areas, including corrugated boxes, strengthened in the latter months of 1971. Many executives see continued demand strength and say this fact will allow long-awaited (for sellers) price increases this year. Indeed, some have already by airline companies in the fourth quarter, and even greater ones are expected in the current quarter as the industry continues its recovery from depressed conditions of a year ago. Many in the industry say Phase 2 will have an increasingly favorable impact on carrier earnings as amounts of union wage increases are held down. Furthermore, the industry believes desired price increases will ultimately be approved by the Price Commission.

U.S. GNP to Double by 1990 But R&D Slows, Study Says

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4 (AP- under 25 years old in the cur-DJ).-The U.S. economy will grow rent decade, many of them infaster during the 1970s and 1980s than during the previous two decades, but a slowdown in research and development (R & D) . says. spending could stunt growth, a private study prepared by the staff of the Conference Board

The board, an independent, nonprofit business research organization, prepared the study for a White House conference on the U.S. economy during the next 20 years which opens Monday. The economy is likely to grow at an average rate of 42 percent a year in the next two decades, up from 3.9 percent during the 1950s and 1960s, the study says. By 1990, the gross national product will jump to $2,400 billion, in 1971 prices from about $1,000 billion last year.

Fucled by Baby Boom'

Fueling the advantage will be a bigger labor force, resulting from the "baby boom" of the late growth in productivity, or output per manhour. There will continue to be a high number of workers experienced and unskilled, creating a drag on both productivity and economic growth, the study

But during the 1980s, as this large labor pool grows older, more experienced and more skillful, productivity growth should move up to 3.4 percent, Productivity had risen at about this pace be tween 1948 and 1966, but the average of the past five years has been about 1.8 percent, the study says.

Unemployment will average about 45 percent of the work force in the 1970s and fall to 4 percent by 1990, according to the Research and development spending, as a share of GNP, has been declining since 1964. The study warns that unless corrected, possibly by greater privately funded R & D, the situation could have "serious consequences" for economie growth in the years ahead. The board said its projections assume a pick-up in R & D outlays, as well as some easing of inflation and no radical change in U.S. social structure

DropsSlightly But Officials Interpret The Figures Differently By Fred Farris

U.S. Reports

Jobless Rate

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4 (IRT). -Unamployment edged down slightly to 5.9 percent last month from the 6 percent it clung to in November and December.

But while the Bureau of Labor Statistics said the rate remained "essentially unchanged," President Nixon's press secretary said that though the change was "it is on the right side." "The January figures give us a sense of optimism," said Ron Ziegler at the Florida White House, noting that more people hold jobs than ever before."

The government reported that the total number of Americans employed rose to a record 80.6 million after seasonal adjustment. Secretary of Labor James D. Hodgson said in a statement that employment "is still on the march, steadily upward."

in the economy." "Jobs were up nearly a quarter of a million last month and more than a million and a quarter in the last six months. New people are streaming into the labor market including many Vietnam weterans.

"We must and will bring these Americans into the mainstream of American workers."

True Number Rises Though the actual number of unemployed rose 752,000 to 5.45 million, there usually is a greater increase in joblessness in January. Thus the Labor Department, figuring on a seasonally-adjusted basis, found the Jan-nary figures showed a 56,000

Similarly, January usually brings a decline in employment and last month's drop of more than 1 million jobs was smaller than the usual January pattern, leading to the government's weighted conclusion that employment actually gained on a seasonally-adjusted basis. When December unemployment was announced last month, the government first reported it at 6.1 percent of the work force, but later the figure was scaled down to 6 percent on the basis of an annual revision pegged on the : previous year's experience. Revised figures released today by the Labor Department showed that, based on changes in season-al adjustment factors, unemployment in 1971 never went below the 5.8 percent reached in June and October. A Bureau of Labor Statistics analyst, noting the upbeat statements from Mr. Hogdson and the White House, said "as yet, there's nothing to indicate a change in direction."

Last month, the bureau reless adds that "we have seen some improvement in prices in the ported, nonfarm employment brass end of the business. Yet you may find that you are actually losing ground due to inflation, taxes or lack of time for investment decisions.

To help solve this problem, clients in 55 countries have turned to The Danforth Associates Investment Management Plan. It has, we believe, proyed especially efficient in providing continuing capital growth supervision for portfolios of from $5,000 to $50,000—on behalf of people who recognize and can share the risks and rewards of common stock investments. The cost is modest, as low as $100 per year.

a converse example: "The Blue-Butterfly" is a book that uses film techniques to tell a story in print, and, while it is fascinating, it has a hard go as fiction.

A blue butterfly has three separate adventures in the book. In the first, he visits four children of different nationalities and explores the environment of each. In the second, he takes a green periwinkle on a trip out of water and into the world. In the last and best, he travels with an orangutan and a spider into a pyramid and across a canyon. The language in all three parts reads like a scenario for full-color animation: They wanted to go across to the other side of the canyon, where they saw some eggs, lemonade and three bunches of grapes on a stone table." A lion at one point says "RUMBLE SQUISH RISHO LIMP," a com-ment which must be seen as well as heard to be effective. Time and space are warped and some-times even nonexistent, and everything is a shifting mass of color and shapes seen through a zoom lens. Again—good for films, but difficult to make sense of on the printed page.

A different kind of illustration would have helped. Thomas di Grazia's black and white pictures are truly beautiful, but they do not belong in this book. They are mysterious, impassive, even somber-appropriate for some dreams but not this one. An artist like Nicole Claveloux could have had a field day with the book and perhaps have saved it. Beatrice de Regnier's new book also features a butterfly, though not in the starring role. "The Boy, the Rat, and the Butterfly"

MANY good books do not make is the story of a trip down a country road, and all three traya converse example: "The Blueelers are named Peter; but white the rat walks upright and recites poetry, the butterfly has scarcely been anthropormorphized at all It flits and rigrage and has a very short span of concentration Peter the Boy finds it beautiful but Peter the Rat tells him that it can only live for three days.
"I'm afraid his demise is imminent." The three friends come upon a bottle of wishing solution with which each blows a bubble. The rat gets cheese from his, but the butterfly's wish becomes confused with the phrase "imminent de-mise," and when his bubble bursts, he dies. At first, Peter the Boy is frozen with grief, but then he blows the last bubble, and from his come taree new butterflies. The story ends as they all move on down the road.

I am not sure I would recom-mend this story for any child who has recently lost a favorite pet, let alone a parent. "Wishing will make it so" is a harmless premise on some levels, but there are obvious problems when it touches something so harsh and final as death. However, I think my unenginess stems not so much from the text, which has real beauty as from the illustrator's rendering of the rat. He looks so cute and flip that he gives the book a comic-strip flavor and turns the butterfly's death into something I'm sure the author didn't intend. In fact, the pletures in general are not supportive. They are relentlessly gray and, frankly, weak.

WHAT makes this or that device work? It's a common enough childhood question and one to which Joe Kautman supplies abundant answers. The me-chanics and mechanical concepts behind nearly 100 objects are covered here, all the way from bicycles, cars and transmissions to trains of all sorts, ships, rockets and lunar modules, to jetstream tooth cleaners, escalators, clocks, tools, musical instruments, radar and toilets.

It is certainly more of a reference book than one a child is cover to cover, and as such a handy aid for parents and children together when something breaks down and has to be repaired.

Probably what pleased me most. given the nature of the book, is that no point is made about this being necessarily a boy's subject. The appeal is obvious to a woman, like myself, who was never, as a child, initiated into the nuts and bolts side of life. Even so, I am an incorrigible taker apart of things. Like a friend's cherished grandiather clock (I eventually got everything back together again), and a broken steam iron which I thought needed only careful taking apart and resp-sembling to make it magically work again (it didn't). Having studied the book's page on from with my son, Matthew, I think we might tackle it again.

Matthew, age 4, has been poring over Mr. Kaufman's multitude of cartoon-like illustrations. which appeal to him, I suspect because they seem to explain the content of the book almost as well as the text itself—which as well as the text itself—which age 13 however, scoffed at the illustrations as being too below. like (a feeling I also had), but got turned on by discovering how an ice skating rink stays froze when the temperature goes up.

How often do we hear kids and adults announce casually that, say, the radio's broken: "We bet-ter junk it and buy a new one"! Given a dose of this book we might hear, instead, an occasion "Let's take it apart and see what's wrong. You may still end up. buying a new radio, but, on the other hand, someone might build you one for your birthday.

U.S. Olympic Sextet Beats Swiss

United States Olympic hockey team best Switzerland, 5-2, today and gained the A group in the Winter Games competition.

Other winners today were Finland and Poland, who join yesterday's victors, Czechoslova-kis and Sweden, and the de-fending champion Russians, who didn't have to qualify, in the six-team top eroup.

The quality of the U.S. victory was not reflected in the seere as the Americans dominated play throughout and kept the puck in Swiss ice for most of the game. The U.S. squad outshot the Swiss, 63 to 18.

The Swiss stayed close because of some excellent goaltending by Gerard Rigolet, who had 27 saves in the second period sione. The U.S. squad led, 2-1, after the first period, 8-2 after the second, and were tied, 3-3, in the final session before pulling sway.

Sheehy's 2d Goal Cheels by Tim Sheehy of International Palls, Minn., his second of the game, and Stuart Irving broke the 3-3 deadlock before a near capacity crowd of 5,600, including Emperor Hirohito of Japan. Kevin Ahearn, of Milton, Mass.,

also scored twice for the winners.

Defensemen Marcel Squaldo and Charles Henzen and right wing Francis Reinhard scored for the Swiss team, which dropped into B group play.

Absern and Sheehy sent the Americans into a 2-0 lead in the carly moments of the game. Abearn received a pass at the bine line, cluded the defense and rifled a shot past Rigolet from about 15 feet out. Sheehy scored on Keith Christiansen's rebound.

Squaldo got one back on a power play, with Frank Sanders serving a tripping penalty.

Reinhard Ties Score -Reinhard's goal at 1:03 of the third period tied the score at 3-3. Michel Turler carried the puck to the right of U.S. goalie Michael Ourran and draw the U.S. defense with him before mapping the puck back to Rebhard, left uncovered. Reinhard secred in an almost open cage. U.S. coach Murray Williamson said after the game, "We were a little auxious, which is something you can't do. The lack of these around the net created a few apprious moments.

Austria's Miss Schuba Leads Figure Skating; U.S. Is 2d, 3d

SAPPORO, Japan, Feb. 4 (UPI).—World champion Beatrix Schuba of Austria took the lead as expected in today's opening program of the school figures, but the U.S. camp still expressed confidence that Julie Lynn Holmes or Janet Lynn could overtake her for the Olympic gold medal in women's figure akating. A Viennese, Miss Schuha reseived the top marks in all three school figures on today's opening program and, as the world's leading practitioner of this pre-cise technical art, she figures to widen her lead in the next three figures tomorrow.

But both U.S. gifts are better free skatery than the Austrian free skaters than the Austrian world charapton, and the feeling is that if they can remain rela-tively close to Miss Schuba in the compulsory phase they might be able to overtake her in the counts 50 percent of the final Miss Holmes, of North Holly. wood, Calif., runner-up to Miss Schubs in last year's world championships at Lyons, France, was second again after the first ware figures while Miss Lyon, of Rockford, Ill., was third.

Schenk Wins 5.000-Meter Speed Skating

SAPPORO. Japan, Feb. 4 (UPI).—World champion Ard Schenk of the Netherlands won the 5,000-meter speed-skating gold medal today—the first step in what sould be a triple gold-medal performance.

Schenk, 27, by the luck of the draw got the No. 1 position in the 14 pairs. Normally, this is a bad spot, bot it aided Schenk as heavy snow made the track progressively werse during the race despite snow-clearing and resurfacing operations.

Schenk clocked 7 minutes, 23.61 . seconds, well below his world record of 7:12 set in 1971 at Incell, West Germany.

Roar Gronvold, 25, a Nor-wegian student who raced in the third pair, took the silver medal with 7:28.18 and his countryman, Sten Stensen, 24, in the seventh pair, won the bronze medal with Goran Classon, 26, of Sweden was fourth with 7:36.17. Schenk, from Amsterdam, admitted that the ice was in good condition but the snow troubled his eyes in the last few laps-

'I'm not disappointed in my failure to break the Olympic record," Schenk said. "The impor-tant thing was to win the gold medal, which is my first." Schenk, who received his gold medal from International Olympic Committee (IOC) president Avery Brundage at the victory ceremony, said he had not changed his mind about entering all four speed-skating events—with the 500, 1,000 and 1,500 to come. He is not expected to have much chance in tomorrow's 500 in which he picked West Germany's Erhard Keller and Lee Linkovski of Finland as the top chances, but he holds the world record in the other two.

Une de Mai Rates As Trot Favorite In Prix de France

PARIS, Feb. 4 (IHT).-Une de Mai of France, which failed last west in the Prix d'Amérique in her bid to win virtually the only big trotting race that has eluded her, is the prohibitive favorite Sunday in a field of eight expected starters for the Prix de France, the second jewel of the triple crown.

The S-year-old mare, trotting's first million-dollar winner, will not have to face the Prix d'Amérique winner Tidalium Pelo Sunday at Vincennes race course in the 250,000-franc race over 2,250 meters (about 1 3/8 miles). The Prix d'Amérique victor receives a handicap, and driver-trainer Jean Mary is content to rest on last week's impressive triumph. Last week Une de Mai, driven by Jean-René Gougeon, locked wheels with Vismie, a competitor again Sunday, and lost ground around the last turn which climinated her from any chance as she finished out of the money.

Points for Peace

WASHINGTON,-One of the point secret plan, then we're reasons that it is so difficult to get a settlement in Vietnam is that there are so many peace proposals on the table no one knows which one hind?" anyone is talking about. Even President Nixon, in discussing the secret meetings with the North Vietnamese in Parls, stumbled over the different plans that have been submitted.

I am certain Buchwald that this is what is happening in the White House at this very moment: "Mr. President, the North Vietnamese have just given an answer to our peace proposal." "Good, Henry, Is it a response to our reply to their public sevenpoint plan or our private eightpoint plan which we submitted to them?" * * *

"We're not certain. As you know, in 1965 they offered us a four-point plan and we came back at them with a 14-point proposal which they rejected outright. Then on May 14, 1969, ws came back with our eight-point public plan, which they countered by submitting a 10-point plan on July 8, 1969."

"What about our five-point proposal of Oct. 7, 1970?" "They responded to that by publicly submitting the National Liberation Front's seven-point

"What does that make the point spread, Henry?"

"I'm not too good at mathematics, Mr President, but I be-lieve on points they're slightly ahead. But if you add our eight-

Thant Named Fellow At Stevenson Institute

UNITED NATIONS, Feb. 4 (UPI).—The Adiai Stevenson Institute of International Affairs yesterday named former UN Secretary-General Thant a senior fellow.

The institute also announced the creation of a new fellowship, at the institute's center in Chicago, honoring Mr. Thant, who retired from his post Dec. 31.

"Do you believe they'll come up with another point proposal when they realize they're be-

"I'm sure of it, Mr. President. They were very angry that we added a point to their sevenpoint proposal of July, and considered it an act of bad faith."

"The only reason we did it was because the seven points did not cover all the proposals." "I know that and you know that, but they don't know it." "I have a good mind to bomb them tomorrow morning."

"Wait a minute, Mr. President, I think we ought to study their reply to our response to their proposal first. There may be something in it we've overlooked." "Well, why can't we bomb them while we're studying their response?"

"Because, if we respond to their answer with bombing, they could say we're not serious about our eight-point proposal."

"Is that the secret one or the public one?" "It was the secret one, Mr. President, until you made it

"Oh, yes, that's right, Well, is their response to our secret—uh, public eight-point proposal, secret or public?

"Publicly they have denounced it, but secretly they've indicated they're studying it."

"Well, why don't we bomb them publicly, but secretly let them. know we're looking for a peaceful

"I believe, sir, we'd have to come up with another proposal before we do. How about a 35-point peace plan? That could really throw them into a swivet." "That's not a bad idea. But before we do that, what was their response to our eight-point secret proposal which I made public the other night to show all Americans that I had gone the extra

"My people are sending it up to me now. Here's one of my aides. Thank you." "Henry, you've gone pale, What is it, Henry?" "Oh, my God, Mr. President: The North Vietnamese want to change the shape of the table." Mary Blume

Mike Nichols: Sick Of Soul-Searching

PARIS (IHT) -Mike Nichols's fifth film will be an adventure story about dolphin training. It will star several dolphins, obviously, and also some people unselected so far because Mr. Nicholas, who usually thinks about casting right off the bat, has promised screenwriter Buck Henry not to give it a thought until the script is finished.

"It will be technically hard and I know it will be wet," he says of the film. "I have very much a desire for a straightforward story. I'm sick of soul-searching all of a sudden. My taste for social comment, for intrapersonal relations got turned off."

In the meantime, "Carnal Knowledge," Mike Nichols's hard study of sexual attitudes and intrapersonal relations, has come to Europe with some predictable comments from early viewers here: "Of course it's about problems we don't have." said one Frenchman a little more smugly than he should. Berlin, the stop before Paris, was less predictable and Mike Nichols, a beautifully composed man normally, was shattered by the first two statements at his press conference:

"The first person said it was an extremely sentimental picture. The second said it reminded him of Myra Breckinridge.' "Carnal Knowledge," Mr. Nichols says, was "the most pleasurable of my films to make. Everyone was intelligent and feeling for the others. I'm really happy with it. I liked it before. I liked it during. I like it now." He is less happy with his preceding film, "Catch 22" but is glad that he made it.

"I felt before, during and after, that it was not my kind of picture, that it turned away from the things I enjoy, details of behavior, personal relationships. It excluded them quite rigorously."

If Mr. Nichols is himself excluding the complications of personal relationships and plunging instead into the blissful and utterly charming world of dolphins, the reason may be partly that he wants a rest and a change after "Carnal Knowledge." And it may be that he is fed up with what passes for human thought and conversation these days. "There's no thinking, there is opinion,

People in New York these days are beating each other over the head with opinions, like beating people over the head with "There's only one opinion on a thing in

New York, I've found myself betraying what I really think-after three times of saying, 'But I liked "Death in Venice," it may not be the story but it was beautiful.' I'd finally find myself saying the fourth time, 'Yes, I hated it.'

"It's always what did you think, never what did you eat, where have you been? The feeling is you are no one without your opinion. It's not clothes or vacations or the right Cartler watch any more-it's what opinion you hurl at everyone."

While American critics gave "Carnal Knowledge? high praise, there was also some dissent, some of it curiously peevish and personal-sounding, as if in studying sexual attitudes of American men from adolescence to middle age, Mr. Nichols had taken Holden Caulfield and turned him into Hugh M. Hefner.

The comments included statements to the effect that the Ann-Margret character was "insultingly passive," that the whole thing was about latent homosexuality, and that it was intended to show that "sex isn't fun" (it was the last comment that most surprised Mr. Nichols, who thinks it

"What posture can you take?" He asks with a small shrug. "It's pretentious to say, You didn't like it because it threatens

"I get very confused about people's dif-ficulty with implicit content. It's like my mother saying when I was a kid, I don't like Bette Davis because she treats people so badly. It's that same confusion." The word coldness has been applied to

"Carnal Knowledge," quite rightly Mr. Nichols says. "It's deliberately removed, it shouldn't appeal in any case. It seemed very important that the results of all this, that the effect on the women should be felt, that the women didn't know what was happening and thought it was their fault, And it was important to have Jack Nicholson, so that his humanity would make that monster possible, I wanted itto be completely simple, spare sort of a chamber movie." There had been talk of Mike Nichols staging "Long Day's Journey Into Night" for Laurence Olivier in London but schedules conflicted and another director did it. Nichols doesn't mind: "The main reason I wanted to do it was to see Olivier The phrase "the Nichols Touch" came into cliché during Mike Nichols's supremely successful Broadway period. He returned to Broadway last fall to stags the latest Neil Simon play: "That's fun, that's pleasure, I have a lot of fun doing it. The experience itself answers the question com-pletely while it is happening, but it doesn't reverberate afterwards the way a film

Despite his loss of interest in the theater, Mike Nichols was deeply moved when he first saw the Berliner Ensemble three years ago:
"Maybe the reason the Berliner Ensemble is so great is there's a lid on it—they can't go into television or leave to make a pic-ture or do something else. Does that sound too cynical, do you think?"

Mike Nichols has been accused of being aloof in his films, he has also been accused of letting the audience direct him ("This is demagoguery in the arts," the critic severely adds). He says he doesn't think about the audience while he's shooting, but he does think about it a great deal as he cuts and re-cuts: "The whole process of making a picture is saying to the audience, this is how things seem to me, do you know what I mean, does it seem at all that way to you? "You know how you used to say, Do you remember Captain Midnight or all-day suckers? The process of making a movis is saying, Do you remember?"

Judge Bernard Jefferson has ruled that Bela Lugosi's heirs should get the proceeds from merchandising his Dracula image. He ordered Universal Pictures to pay the film star's son and widow profits made from Lugosi's image on Dracula kites, games, figurines, Halloween costumes and toys since 1964. Lugosi died in 1956. He launched the character of the Transylvanian vampire count in the film "Dracula" 1931, Judge Jefferson ruled that the actor played Dracula under a 1930 contract that permitted use of his likeness in movies, but not for other commercial pur-poses. "It is the court's hold-ing," the judge said, "that Bela Lugosi's interest or right in his likeness . . . as Count Dracula was a property right of such a character and substance that it did not terminate with his death, but descended to his heirs."

Aviation pioneer Charles A. Lindbergh reached the age of 70 Friday, doing battle for a better balance between the use and conservation of the world's natural resources. "The surface of the earth's environment is breaking down in most of the world, in some areas disastrously," he said in a rare appearance before newsmen. He said he currently devotes more than half of his time to conservation projects around the world.
